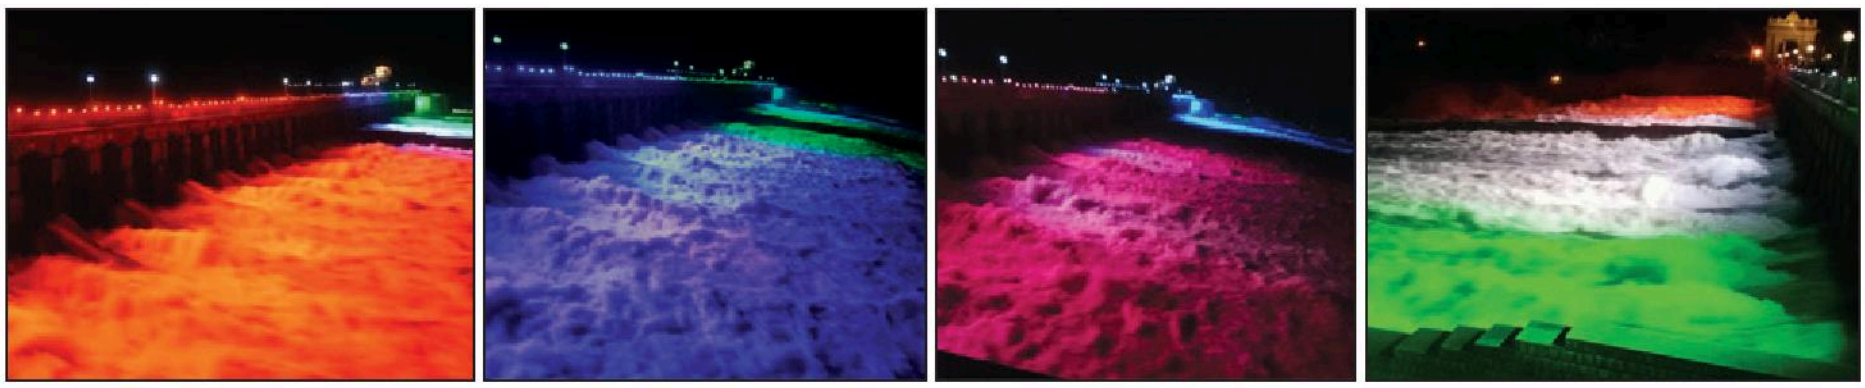
Melange of Colours at KRS

500 LED lights to flash seven hues on water from tonight



Mysuru, July 18 (RK&BCT)- Sight-seeing during night at the illuminated KRS Dam and Brindavan Gardens is always fascinating. To make the experience memorable, KRS engineers have now illuminated the area from where thousands of cusecs of Cauvery water is being released from the Dam every day.

Over 500 LED lights have been used to light up the symmetrically designed area from where the water is released (South Gate) and the lights flash seven colours — Saffron, White, Green (symbolising the Tricolour), Red, Purple, Yellow and Navy Blue. This is for the first time in the last five years that the Dam has been filled to its maximum capacity, thanks to heavy rains in the catchment area of Kodagu.

Speaking to SOM, an official from KRS said "We are now getting a footfall of over 30,000 tourists per day who come only to see the water being released from the dam. As a safety measure, we have banned entry of visitors to Brindavan Gardens via the North Gate of KRS (from the old entrance). We allow them to see water release from the South Gate near Cauvery Neeravari Nigam Limited (CNNL) Office (near the new bridge and toll gate)."

"As the entry via North Gate is banned, we do not want the tourists to be disappointed. They can now watch the colourfully illuminated water being released from the crest gates after 7 pm. We conducted a trial yesterday and the show will be open to public from today evening," the official said. He added that the illumination has been done on the directives of CNNL Managing Director H.L. Prasanna. KRS is receiving an inflow of 71,353 cusecs of water and there is an outflow of 76,106 cusecs. "Entry via North Gate will be banned till the outflow reduces to 40,000 cusecs. If entry is allowed, tourists will flock the Edamuri Falls and there is a danger of people being washed away," the official added.

Taking things for granted

The opening puzzle posed to three contestants five days a week in the Kannada quiz programme telecast in the evening by DD channel invariably features a Kannada idiom. The contestants, after the mostly inappropriate response to the puzzle, are enlightened by the quiz master saying the meaning of the whole phrase has no connect with the meaning of its words, however simple and common place. One such English idiom is Take for granted commonly heard in the slightly changed form Taken for granted. Taking someone for granted means to underestimate the value (or status) of that person, which may be illustrated clearly by the sentence "The editors felt that the publisher was taking them for granted." Innumerable examples from daily life can be cited to bring home the often unrealised Indian ethos of taking anything or anyone for granted. Customs and beliefs behind the rituals are unarguably the best examples of people of the land in most cross sections of its populace taking them as sacrosanct, but for being questioned by many in some circles of the self-appointed rationalists.

Without casting aspersions on the land's ancient luminaries to whom are attributed words of wisdom, one is prompted to discount the culture of accepting everything uttered by the elderly in society. The book titled "Don't accept anything without questioning" (in Kannada), authored by Prof. H. Narasimhaiah of National College, Bengaluru, throws light on the many aspects of taking things for granted.

The advisory Forewarned is Forearmed adequately alerts everyone about the wisdom of not taking things for granted. Reading reports on various happenings in newspaper columns nowadays takes us to the world of uncertainties. Incidents of a scientist losing his life by being washed away in the river at Chunchanakatte (60 kms from Mysuru) and four people bathing at the base of a waterfall getting killed by a boulder that came hurtling down are only some examples of taking things for granted. A seemingly light-hearted example of water not flowing out of the tap in the kitchen early morning on some days is also a common example of taking the water supply system in Mysuru for granted. Then, the everyday happenings of electricity giving the slip, unexpectedly many times a day.

Many among us do not want to think even for a moment about the veracity of whatever comes to them as a rumour relating to inter-communal discord, mostly triggering a local disruption. The nation is paying heavily for taking the rumour as fact. We are witnessing such happenings taking them also for granted.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

Most Americans are among the most friendly people you're likely to encounter in day-to-day activities, while you're in a shopping mall, or in a restaurant, or just walking along the street. In India, in urban India at least, we don't generally exchange salutations with people we don't know. An unsolicited greeting on your part to a stranger would not only cause perplexity but could also be misunderstood. In India, there is a well-defined protocol for the extending and receiving of be it a 'Hello, ji', 'Namaste', 'Namaskaram', 'Ram, Ram', or 'Salaam'. A domestic help is expected to greet the master or mistress first, rather than the other way round. In the work place, the subordinate greets the boss. — Jug Suraiya in The Times of India.

Hours to create photo-realistic pencil drawings

Lagos: Arinze Stanley, a young Nigerian artist whose works often leave people scratching their heads and asking themselves if they're looking at a pencil drawing or a high-definition black and white photograph as his drawing skills are too good.

Arinze's interest in art and drawing in particular was sparked at a young age, primarily by the fact that he was always surrounded by paper as his family ran a paper company. He would often kill time by grabbing a piece of paper and trying his hand at drawing. But he only started exploring hyper-realism in 2012, and became a professional artist a year later. Looking at his fantastic artworks, it's safe to say that he has come a long way in very little time.

He confesses that he often ends up staring at people's faces unconsciously, and adds that being a portrait artist has made him appreciate the varieties of human facial structures and details.

Chinese city has train passing through 19th floor

Chongqing: Chongqing, one of the most populated cities in China with high construction density has prompted architects and city planners to develop a vital monorail line. Their solution – having the train pass straight through a 19th floor of an apartment building.

With the Daba, Wushan, Wuling, and Dalou Mountains to its north, east and south, most of Chongqing's terrain is made up of hill slopes. In 2004, when the Rail Transit No.2 was approved, they only had two choices – either tear down the building to make room for the monorail, or clear two floors and make a tunnel, so the train can pass through it. Experts went for the second option, and 13 years later, they are still convinced it was the right thing to do.

George on 'Hindu Pakistan'

Minorities too should vote as 'Indians' NOT as 'Vote-Banks'

Sir,

I am an addict to the Point of View column by TJS George for many years. His political comments are like heat-seeking missiles which sometimes misses its target.

In his yesterday's column titled Much ado about 'Hindu Pakistan', George says, "Shashi Tharoor's point, therefore, was valid, but perhaps he made a phraseological mistake."

Shashi Tharoor could have easily said, "India would become Hindu Rashtra or Hindu India like Muslim Pakistan." But he would not, because he knows British India was divided on the basis of religion, specially yielding to Muslim demand. Naturally, Hindus expect the truncated India with Hindu majority to be Hindu India.

Tharoor seems to have a purpose in using that mulatto of a phrase. Using that phrase he simply nuanced what he really wanted to say — if India becomes a Hindu Rashtra or Hindu India, then the country will be a 'Failed State' or a 'Terrorist State' like Pakistan. Therefore, it cannot be a 'phraseological mistake,' as George says. I can't imagine an intellectual of Tharoor's calibre making a mistake of this kind.

I agree with George when he says "The majority of Hindus in this Hindu-majority country vote not as Hindus, but as Indians." That was the very reason Congress party has been winning the elections. Unfortunately, minorities in India do not vote as 'Indians' but as 'Vote-Banks'.

India's growth at risk if Modi is not re-elected: Top US industrialist John Chambers

Washington, July 18- India's "impressive development and inclusive growth" stand at risk if Prime Minister Narendra Modi does not get a chance to lead the country after the next year's Parliamentary elections, a top US industrialist has said.

John Chambers, a former Executive Chairman and CEO of CISCO Systems, told a group of Indian reporters that India has a chance to be the strongest growth-inclusive country in the world.

"To do that (it) takes at least a decade to put in place. I think your Prime Minister Modi has the capability of doing it. I think he has the country headed in the right way," he said.

"I think it would be a major risk not to give him a chance to finish that vision," Chambers said recently on the sidelines of the inaugural Annual Leadership Summit of the US India Strategic and Partnership Forum (USISPF) here of which he is the Chairman.

He was responding to a question what if Modi was not re-elected in the 2019 elections. "He (Modi) is courageous. He wakes up every day thinking about your country's future," he said.

Responding to a question on India-US relationship, there is huge potential in this bilateral relationship. "The impact of this is going to be so large for both nations that you will not find small bumps on the way to distract us," he said.

Wasteful Arch Gate irks residents of K.C. Nagar

Mysuru, July 18 (SBD&KS)- A welcome arch sans heritage look, being constructed at the entrance of K.C. Nagar, off Chamundi Hill Road, at a cost of Rs. 5.50 lakh by the Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) has irked the residents of K.C. Nagar in city.

Already, pits have been dug on either sides of the Road and about 4ft. tall concrete pillars have come up. Only construction of the arch is pending.

Corporator Vanitha Prasanna said that the welcome arch would be constructed on the lines of the arches built at the entrance of Kannegowdanakoppal adjacent to City Law Courts Complex and on Vontikoppal Road next to Cheluvamba Park.

Meanwhile, the residents of the locality, expressing their displeasure, have opposed the construction of the welcome arch without heritage look. They said that they were expecting an arch with a heritage look as it is being constructed next to the Chamundi Hill Road. They observed that it is just one more ordinary arch being built with just a metal sheet on top which will look like a flex.

They said that when most of the areas in Mysuru are lacking basic facilities, what was the need for the MCC to take up such an unscientific construction of a welcome arch which actually is a waste of tax-payers' money?

A resident of K.C. Nagar said that instead of providing more yellow painted steel garbage bins, specially on Jayachamarajendra (JC) Wadiyar Road and at the cross-roads, the MCC is wasting money on this arch. A case of ಹೊಟ್ಟೆಗೆ ಹಿಟ್ಟಿಲ್ಲ, ಜುಟ್ಟಿಗೆ ಮಲ್ಲಿಗೆ ಹೂವು (There is no food to eat, but the jasmine decors the crown).

CESC or MCC should direct Forest Dept. not to plant saplings beneath power lines

Why plant them now and kill them later by cutting branches to clear power lines?

Mysuru, July 18 (KS)- For a sustainable living, 'Go Green' has become the mantra. The Forest Department, which undertook a tree-planting drive, has planted many saplings at vacant spots and on roadsides.

But what is so objectionable about this is that the saplings are being planted indiscriminately and right under the overhead power lines which clearly shows lack of common sense among the officials concerned.

Once the saplings grow into trees, the branches will definitely touch the power lines above resulting in disruption of power and may lead to short circuit causing damage to electrical and electronic gadgets. Then arrive the CESC gangmen to cut branches of protruding trees.

In city many trees are touching the overhead electricity wires. The CESC staff keep cutting or trimming the branches every now and then. As a result some trees die. In spite of this, the officials continue to plant saplings under the power lines.

The top officials should have a sense of responsibility in discharging their duties by guiding their staff to plant the saplings at the right places. They should be clearly told that saplings must not be planted under power lines or where overhead cables are running or in places where they cannot grow or be protected.

All they require is a little common sense to see where to or where not to plant the saplings.

"Officials remain here for three years and go away after being transferred, but we the residents must suffer the mistakes committed by them," said a resident of K.C. Nagar.

Preparations on for Kumaraswamy's visits to offer Bagina at Harangi, KRS

Trees felled in Kodagu to clear way for CM's Talacauvery visit

Mysuru, July 18 (RK,PS&BCT)- Hectic preparations are on for Chief Minister H.D. Kumaraswamy to offer Bagina to the reservoirs along the River Cauvery basin on July 19 and 20. Bagina is a sacred offering to the River Goddess as a thanksgiving gesture for bountiful rains.

After returning from New Delhi where he is meeting representatives of State in Cauvery Water Management Authority (CWMA) and Cauvery Water Regulation Committee (CWRC) and Karnataka MPs, Kumaraswamy will offer Bagina at Harangi Reservoir in Kodagu on July 19. He will hold a meeting with Kodagu District officials at Madikeri and elected representatives on the rain damage and relief measures.

Kumaraswamy will stay in Madikeri and will perform special puja to Sri Bhagandeshwara Swamy at Bhagamandala at 5.30 am on July 20 and proceed to Talacauvery, the birthplace of River Cauvery. He will offer his prayers at the Brahma Kundike.

Later, he will fly to Mysuru to perform puja to Goddess Chamundeshwari atop Chamundi Hill (on the occasion of first Ashaada Shukravara) and will fly to KRS to offer Bagina at the Dam.

At the KRS Dam, gates and side-grills are being painted to welcome the CM. A helipad is kept ready for Kumaraswamy's chopper to land. After offering Bagina, the CM will garland the statue of Goddess Cauvery that has been given a fresh coat of black polish.

Trees ordered to be cut in Kodagu: Meanwhile, Kodagu Deputy Commissioner P.I. Sreevidya has instructed officials to clear trees that are leaning dangerously on the Madikeri-Bhagamandala-Talacauvery Road, the route which will be taken by Kumaraswamy when he proceeds towards Bhagamandala and Talacauvery on July 19.

Being pro-active and going out of their way after the DC's order, the Forest Department felled many trees, both young and old, on this road. While the branches of many trees were pruned, many trees that were leaning on to the road were chopped on the Madikeri-Boikeri-Bhagamandala stretch.

Not only this. To ensure safety of the CM, the DC has ordered stationing of fire engines at places wherever Kumaraswamy visits and stays. Even a task force has been appointed with designated vehicles to move ahead of the CM's cavalcade to avoid any untoward incidents due to heavy rain.

Though the DC has denied that she has issued the order to clear way for the CM's visit, environmentalists, displaying the copy of the order from the DC office, have objected to Sreevidya's move.

Photos of many trees being cut on the CM's route have gone viral on social media and even the netizens are not taking the issue lightly. They have questioned the destruction of trees, causing permanent damage, just for a brief VVIP visit.

Protest by farmers: A KRS Chalo will be taken out by farmers at the Krishna Raja Sagar (KRS) Dam on July 20 when CM Kumaraswamy visits there to offer Bagina. Black flags will be shown to Kumaraswamy for not waiving off all farm loans as promised by him at election rallies.

Farmer leaders from K.R. Pet near Mandya have stated that they will block Kumaraswamy's convoy at KRS demanding immediate waiver of all loans taken by farmers from all Banks, Cooperative, State and National.

In this week's Pet Talk, Maneka explains about the need for proper dental care in horses and life cycle of a honey bee and Guinea pig

Pet Talk

Maneka Gandhi

Do horses get fleas?

Horses can get fleas, although it's not very common. They tend not to get infested, but they can be affected by them.

Can horses see in the dark?

Yes and no, in that they can see enough to graze at night, but if we eliminate all possible light sources then the horse won't be able to see. Just like humans, horses need a light source too for its vision to interpret objects. What allows horses to see better than humans at night is their sensitivity to light, particularly low light.

Do horses need proper dental care?

Throughout its life, your horse will need to have its teeth cared for. Most horses will have to have their teeth floated at least once per year. Floating is the practice of filing off any sharp edges or hooks that may form on the edges of the teeth. Horse's teeth grow and change throughout their lifetime. This is why you can tell a horse's approximate age by its teeth. As they chew, they wear the tooth surface away slowly, but new tooth material slowly grows up to provide a new chewing surface. If the wear is uneven, the teeth may form sharp edges. However, many old horses have gaps made by teeth that have fallen out, making it very difficult for them to chew. Sometimes, discomfort due to dental problems is mistaken for bad behaviour. Head tossing, inability to go or stay on the bit, bit chewing or tongue lolling, can be just a few of the signs that your horse has tooth problems.

How to tell if a guinea pig is male or female?

The easiest way to tell the difference between male and female guinea pigs is by measuring the distance between the guinea pig's anus and its genitals. A male guinea pig's genital area measures further from the anus than a female guinea pig's genital area. Another way to determine the sex of the guinea pig is by looking at the shape of the genitals. The opening of the genitals on males looks like a dot and the opening of the genitals on females looks like a vertical slit.

How long does a Guinea pig live?

Guinea pigs live an average of 5 to 7 years.

Is it advisable to let a guinea pig live outside the house in the garden?

It is not advisable to let guinea pigs live outside.

Where do guinea pigs come from?

Wild guinea pigs come from South America, in north western Venezuela spanning across to central Chile. These wild guinea pigs are the original ancestors of the domestic pet guinea pig that we see today. They have been used since then as pets, for food, for their beautiful coats and also given as gifts. They were first brought to Europe by English and Dutch traders in the 1700s and they became a popular pet for royalty across Europe. Since then they have grown in popularity as pets, but wild guinea pigs still exist in the wild today in the Andes region of South America.

• Egg • Larva • Pupa • Adult.

All bee life cycles go through these stages, although there are great variations between the life cycles of solitary, honey and bumblebees.

How many bees live in a hive?

Between 20,000 and 60,000 bees live in a single hive. The queen bee lays nearly 1,500 eggs a day and lives for up to two years.

How are honeycombs made by bees?

Honeycombs are made of bee's wax which is made from the nectar of flowers. Beeswax is a natural wax produced in the bee hive of honey bees of the genus Apis. It is mainly esters of fatty acids and various long chain alcohols. It is secreted by the bees from glands on their abdomens.

It depends upon various aspects like:

• Availability of nectar or flora around the hive. Location of your bee hive is very important.

• Strength of the bee hive. How healthy your bees are.

• And lastly, it depends on the weather, if it is cold outside then bees will not go out to collect nectar and if it is too hot outside then bees will die. So the temperature should be ideal.

If everything goes well then one bee hive can produce 35-40 kg honey in a year. But the conditions are not ideal every time, so the average amount of honey produces by one bee hive is around 20-30 kg.

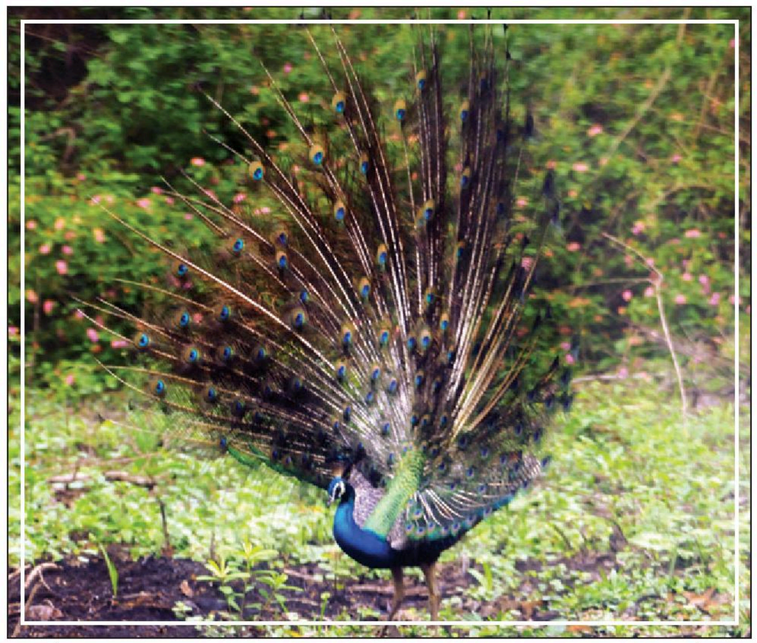
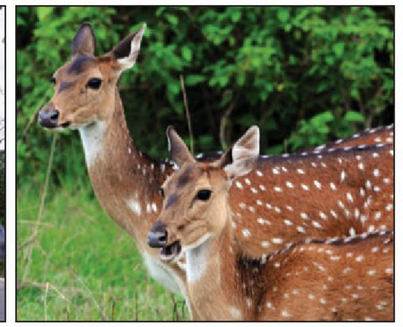
Monsoon bounty for denizens at Bandipur and Nagarahole





By M.T. Yogesh Kumar & Mahesh Hanagodu

Lush green, not dust and mud, is the dominant colour at Bandipur Tiger Reserve and Nagarahole National Park now, thanks to the rain that has been lashing this vast expanse of forests since the end of May this year. While the pre-monsoon showers in February provided the much-needed relief to the parched jungles and bone-dry lakes and ponds, monsoon has converted the dust-filled swathes into green patches.

Rain has arrived early this year and the volume of water coming down from the clouds has increased manifold when compared to the last three to four years. Nagarahole is in the border of Kodagu district that has witnessed more than average rain this monsoon.

Normally it would rain by the end of June till about first week of August. Due to this, wild animals from Nagarahole used to venture out of forest area into human settlements in search of food and water every year after December. Last two years were the worst for the animals as River Lakshmanatheertha went dry along with water bodies inside the park including the ones at Chennammanakatte, Erekatte, Mantallikere, Mudaganoorukere, Billenahosahallikere, Bheemanakatte, and Baanerikere.

Even the forest department officials are hopeful that the animals, especially elephants, will remain inside the woods without venturing outside as plenty of food is available inside the jungle.

The Nagarahole National Park is spread across 643 Square Kilometres and has been divided into 8 Zones - Nagarahole, Kallahalla, Veeranahosahalli, Hunsur, Anechowkur, Antharasanthe, D.B. Kuppe and Metikuppe. Before monsoon, the Forest Department officials had identified certain lakes and had made arrangements to fill water from borewell preventing animals from dying of thirst.

Also, due to lack of water, animals would migrate to Kabini Backwaters and some animals ventured into villages destroying paddy and other standing crops. But now with rain, the threat of drought is eliminated, said Madhusudhan, Range Forest Officer, Veeranahosahalli.

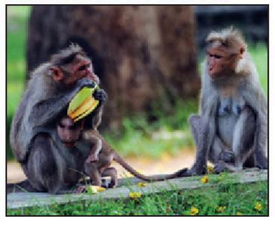
Speaking to Star of Mysore, Madhusudhan said that they had set up fencing around the forest with waste railway lines and have also dug trenches to prevent elephants from entering villages. Special watch towers have been set up and guards are posted there to minimise man-animal conflict.

Only five kilometres of Veeranahosahalli has to be fenced with railway lines and the rest of the fencing has been completed. This can eradicate the wild elephant menace up to 99 percent at Nagarahole, Madhusudhan added.

It's raining in Bandipur; plenty of food for wildlife

Drought and frequent forest fire have played havoc with animals of the Bandipur Tiger Reserve since the last two or three years. Starved of fodder and water, animals migrated to Wayanad in Kerala and the backwaters of Kabini to survive the dry weather.

Their misery has ended finally this year as heavy rain has turned Bandipur's forests lush green once again with plenty of food and water on offer for animals.



The Tiger Reserve that resembled a desolate place with dry trees, tall lantanas and dust-filled hot air permeating the atmosphere from November last year to March this year now sports a green blanket all over. Be it trees, lakes, ponds, rivulets, plain areas or slopes, everything is green and full of fresh water.

The Bandipur National Park is spread across 1,02,700 hectares (1,027 sq kms) and the forest area covers a total of 13 ranges including three in Bandipur, four in Gundlupet and six in Hediyala. Among the 380 lakes in Bandipur, 350 lakes had completely gone dry. All the 380 lakes are now filled with water and the areas around the lake are filled with water springs that have been activated, thanks to heavy rain.

In Bandipur range, 20 lakes including Mallikatte, Subbarayanakatte and Venkatappanapaala, have been filled to the brim. In Kundkere, all the 11 lakes including Kuntabasappanakatte, Hosakere, Kalikatte, Doddakere, and Chigurumaduvinakatte have been filled.

Likewise, 15 lakes out of 30 lakes in Gopalaswamy Range, 15 lakes including Navilukere and Madakere in Moolehole, nine lakes in Maleyur Range including Seegewadikere and Dodda Dasanakatte, 21 lakes out of 26 lakes in Hediyala Range including Shambhukatte, Marigowdanakatte and Ankappanakatte and 33 lakes in Omkar range including Shanthakatte, Halakatte and Jammanakatte have been filled.

Forest officials said that if the South West Monsoon continues in the same momentum till August and if there is good rain during North East Monsoon in October and December, the greenery inside the park will remain till the next monsoon.

Apart from being a Tiger Reserve, Bandipur supports a good population of species like Indian elephants, gaurs, sloth bears, muggers, Indian rock pythons, four-horned antelopes, black bucks, jackals and dholes, leopards, spotted deer, Sambhar, mouse deer, civet cats, king cobra, spectacled cobras and others.

It also supports a wide range of plants and tree species including teak, rosewood, sandalwood, Indian-laurel, Indian kino tree, giant clumping bamboo, clumping bamboo and others. There are a number of flowering and fruiting tree species like kadam, Indian gooseberry, crape-myrtle, axlewood, black myrobalan, flame of the forest, golden shower tree and others.

Bandipur is a home for over 200 species of birds such as honey buzzards, red-headed vultures, Indian vultures, flower-peckers, hoopoes, Indian rollers, brown fish owls, crested serpent eagles, changeable hawk-eagles, bee-eaters and others.

More tourists expected

Bandipur Tiger Reserve Director Ambadi Madhav who is also the Director, Project Tiger, Bandipur told SOM that they were expecting more tourists to Bandipur in the coming days. Of late, tourists, wildlife enthusiasts and ecological tourists are making a beeline to Bandipur and they are not disappointed as Bandipur is now renowned for showcasing spectacular sightings of majestic animals in their natural habitat.

"We are ready to accommodate tourists and have taken a series of measures to ensure the safety of wild animals and the human beings. Apart from setting up railway line fencing, we are levying heavy fines on tourists who cause a nuisance inside the protected areas. Patrolling has been intensified and we are booking cases against violators in addition to fines," he said.

England-India ODI Series

Root, Morgan shine as England win over India to seal series

Leeds, July 18- England scripted a remarkable turnaround in the limited over series against India by clinching the three-match ODI rubber 2-1 after cantering to a facile eight-wicket win in the series-deciding final ODI on Tuesday.

Joe Root (100) hit a second successive century, while Eoin Morgan (88) smashed an unbeaten half-century as the duo shared a match-winning unbeaten 186-run unconquered stand to script a successful runchase on a track which seemed to have eased out later in the day.

Openers James Vince (27) and Jonny Bairstow (30) earlier gave England a good start, amassing 43 in 4.4 overs.

With this win, England exacted revenge for their 1-2 loss against India in the Twenty20 series. This is also the first victory for England in limited over cricket over India since 2011.

Earlier, skipper Virat Kohli cracked a strokeful 71 before England dished out some disciplined bowling effort to restrict India to a modest 256 for 8.

Kohli scored 71 off 72 balls, inclusive of eight fours, but the Indian innings faltered in face of some quality spin bowling by Adil Rashid, who snapped 3 for 49 to hurt the middle order.

Kohli forged a 71-run partnership for the second wicket with Shikhar Dhawan (44) but after the duo were dismissed under-fire Mahendra Singh Dhoni scored 42 off 66 balls to shepherd the innings in the latter half.

Tailender Shardul Thakur (22) then blasted a 13-ball 22 with the help of two sixes to take India across the 250-mark.

Four Highway dacoits arrested

- Criminals had spread terror on Mysuru-Madikeri Road
- All the accused are from Mysuru

Mysuru, July 18 (ACP&BCT)- The Periyapatna Police have arrested a four-member gang of highway dacoits and have seized goods worth Rs. 8.90 lakh from them. These dacoits had spread terror on Mysuru-Madikeri Road via Periyapatna and Hunsur. The Police are now on the lookout for more such gangs operating on the roads.

The dacoits used to target travellers between Mysuru, Madikeri and Virajpet. Whenever they used to spot lonely or fewer occupants in cars and SUVs, they used to strike and rob cash and valuables. Brandishing knives and daggers, they would target vehicles especially at curves when the vehicles generally slow down.

The arrested dacoits are Pir Shah alias Kasim Sharif, Syed Shabaz, Mohammad Haneef and Mohammad Siddique. All of them are from Mysuru. On July 5 at around 11 pm, the accused had stopped a Bolero Pick-up vehicle (KL-13-V-4034) near Panchavalli. The vehicle was coming from Devanahalli and was transporting fruits to a shop at Thalassery in Kerala.

After stopping the vehicle, they told driver Nagesha that they were RMC (Regulated Market Committee) officials and demanded the bills for the purchase of fruits and transport permits. As Nagesha got out of his vehicle, the accused overpowered and bundled him to a Scorpio vehicle (KA-34-M-5823) that they had brought and took him to places like Bilikere, K.R. Nagar and Hunsur.

The accused then abandoned Nagesha at a deserted stretch in the wee hours after snatching his mobile phone and cash of Rs. 5,000. Nagesha later lodged a complaint with the Periyapatna Police. Investigating the case, Periyapatna Police Inspector H.N. Siddaiah and Sub-Inspector Ravikiran got enough clues that the dacoits hailed from Mysuru and had gone to Panchavalli in search of targets.

They later arrested the four accused at Old Kesare near the godown of one Vijayendra on July 13. The Police also seized the Bolero Pick-up vehicle and the Scorpio that was used for the crime. Over 224 crate grapes and apples, Rs. 40,000 cash and two vehicles estimated at Rs. 8.90 lakh have been seized from them.

During interrogation, the Police learnt that the four accused, along with their accomplices, had robbed many vehicles and they operated on the highways at Nagamangala in Mandya, Chamarajanagar, Hassan Hunsur and Madikeri. The accused have been produced before a Court that ordered judicial custody.

Based on the clues given by the accused, the Police are now on the lookout for other accused and similar gangs operating on highways.

Senior Officer suspended for dereliction of duty

Dr. K. Rameshwarappa

Mysuru, July 18 (RK&BCT)- Food and Civil Supplies Minister B.Z. Zameer Ahmed Khan yesterday said that the Department's Senior Deputy Director in Mysuru, Dr. K. Rameshwarappa has been suspended from service following the theft of 1,165 quintals of rice, 36 quintals of tur dal and 196 quintals of wheat from the Nanjangud godown.

Addressing reporters in Bengaluru, Khan said the Department has also filed FIRs against depot manager Mylaraiah and computer operator Basavaraju in this regard.

It may be recalled here that over 1,165 quintals of rice and 36 quintals of tur dal and 196 quintals of wheat went missing from a godown in APMC yard at Nanjangud. Marulasidda Aaradhya, Shivashankarappa and Raghavendra from Karnataka State Food and Civil Supplies Corporation at Bengaluru, visited the godown on July 13 for verification of stocks, when to their astonishment, found a huge stock of food grains missing after the stocks were verified.

Even as the misappropriation of Anna Bhagya food grains was unearthed by the officials, the godown manager Mylaraiah went absconding. As Mylaraiah could not be traced, Dr. Rameshwarappa, who visited the godown the next day, lodged a complaint with Nanjangud Town Police Station on the alleged misappropriation of food grains.

The suspension order stated that Rameshwarappa did not furnish the details about the missing food grains and has derelicted his duties, leading to suspicion. The order observed that Rameshwarappa visited the godown only the next day (July 14) despite raid by senior Karnataka State Food and Civil Supplies Corporation officials and lodged the compliant.

The suspension order also mentions that as a senior officer of the Department, Rameshwarappa should have information about the food grain stocks of Anna Bhagya scheme and he had kept quiet even as officials from Bengaluru had raided the godown.

Reacting on his suspension, Rameshwarappa told reporters that he had rushed to the spot, conducted an inquiry, seized the ledger and lodged a complaint with the Nanjangud police, before suspending the manager and supervisor over the missing food grain.

"I am shocked over the suspension order accusing me of not furnishing information. On that day, I had rushed from the funeral of a retired IAS officer to the godown to verify the stock and registered a case at Nanjangud Police Station when I realised that food grain bags were missing," he said.

"I have registered over 950 cases against dealers, black marketers, millers and transporters in the past 21 years without yielding to any pressure.

The godown Manager has taken sides with the officers who raided the godown and the whole operation is a conspiracy of a few officials of the department to tarnish my image," he claimed.

WORD OF THE DAY

Veld

Pronunciation: VELT

Origin: Veld (also spelled veldt) comes from Afrikaans, the language of the Afrikaners, the descendants of the Dutch and Huguenot people who settled in Southern Africa in the 17th century. Literally, veld means "field," and is akin to feld, the Old English predecessor of field. English speakers adopted the Africa-specific sense of veld in the 18th century. Veld refers to open country in Southern Africa. Different regions of the veld are distinguished by their elevations. There is the Highveld, the Lowveld, and the Middleveld, each with different geographical characteristics. Another term associated with veld is kopje (or koppie). This word came to English from Afrikaans (and ultimately from a Dutch word meaning "small head" or "cup") and refers to a small hill, particularly one on the African veld.

THE ODD WORD

Empasm

A perfumed powder sprinkled on the body to prevent sweating or for medicinal purposes.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

As busy as a bee

Meaning: Very busy, very active; working constantly.

Origin: This phrase likely originates from something that bees are known for: being hard workers. Pollinating plants, for one! In order to reproduce, many plants actually depend on bees for pollination. For a flower to reproduce, the stamen (the male organ of a flower) has to produce pollen, and then that pollen needs to get to the stigma of the pistil (the female organ of a flower). When a bee lands on a flower, the pollen sticks to the hairs of its body. Then, when the bee lands on another flower of the same type, the pollen makes contact with the stigma of flower, and thus pollination occurs. So while bees are buzzing around from plant to plant, they're doing quite a bit of work. Bees also collect nectar (a sugary liquid that flowers produce) and they use that to make honey, and then there is the whole building a hive.

This saying goes back to at least the 14th century. From Chaucer's Canterbury Tales, (the Squire's Tale), 1386-1400, there is a line that reads: "In wommen be; for ay as busy as bees."

A great surprise awaited us during our trip to Sea to Sky Gondola (see pic. 1) 885 mts above sea level here in Canada where we are on a short vacation with our son and family.

It is yoga on a rocky mountain top in British Columbia. When I introduced to the organisers that I was from the Yoga City Mysuru in India, they were very happy as they were well aware of Mysuru and Yoga. And how happy we were to see "Mysuru's Yoga connection on a rocky mountain!" (see pic. 2).
